Number Of Injured In Blinding Flash Is Fixed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.-(P)-After a night spent probing beneath glaring searchlights, police today fixed the death toll at 15. Of the 158 injured several were feared dying.

The scene, as police and firemen shifted the blasted rubble of an electroplating plant, resembled somewhat a garishly-lit night-time movie set. Except that there was nothing fictional about the carnage.

The one-story brick plant of the J. J. O'Connor Corp., at 932 East Pico boulevard, a mile from the center of downtown Los Angeles, blew apart in a blinding flash of chemicals at 9:45 a. m., (P. S. T.) yesterday. But t was hours before a clear picture of the disaster could be pieced together Police and fire officials finally agreed that it was caused by the detonation of perchloric acid, an extremely unstable substance kept under pressure in refrigeration because at room temperature it is a seething, heavy liquid. But how the acid was set off remained a mystery O'Connor told reporters, "We were doing something for the government.' This he later amplified was the aluminum-plating of hospital beds and chairs under a secret trade process. Not in the plant at the time, he

House And Senate Groups Busy On Drafts Of Differing Measures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.-(AP)-The House judiciary committee approved today a measure outlawing all portal-to-portal pay claims.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP)—House and Senate judiciary committees today worked on final drafts of two differing bills to deal with the problem of nearly $6,000,000,000 in portal pay suits.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) called the Senate group into session (10 E. S. T.) to thresh out last minute objections to a subcommittee measure which would leclare such claims "null and void." He said he expects to have a final version ready Monday.

The House judiciary committee meeting separately (10:30 E. S. T.) ad before it a subcommittee which has not been made public, but which is reported to call for wider hanges in the wage-hour law than the senators proposed. The suits have been brought under that act. The Senate bill deals only with the claim of any description under the act. The law now contains no statute of limitations.

COLUMBIAN CHIEF GETS THREE YEARS

ATLANTA, Feb. 21.—(/P)—Columbian President Emory Burke was sentenced today to three years' imprisonment for usurping police powers in direction of his Negro-hating, Jew-buiting organization.

Superior (Circuit) Court Judge Carl Crow imposed the sentence after a jury returned guilty verdicts last night on three counts of an indictment. The court ordered Burke to serve 12 months on each of the three counts, the sentences to run consecutively.

Counsel immediately entered a motion for a new trial.

The dapper, pale-faced Burke, a 31year-old railroad draftsman, stood motionless before the court as the sentence was pronounced. His attractive brunette wife voluntarily stood by his side.

Burke was the second Columbian within a week to draw conviction and sentencing on charges in connection with alleged terrorist activities against Negroes last fall.

Homer L. Loomis, Jr., executive sec retary of the organization pledged to maintenance of absolute white supremacy in America, was found guilty Saturday of a charge of riot. He was sentenced to 12 months in a public works camp and is free on $2,000 bond pending an appeal hearing May 1. The superior (circuit) court jury convicted Burke yesterday of the usurpation charge, a misdemeanor.

The state based its case on three incidents last October and November in which uniformed members of the anti-Jewish and anti-Negro Columbians were involved. One involved search for a Negro after an alleged raping, another the blackjacking of a Negro in a white residential section and the third the attempted halting MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 .- (AP)of a Negro family from moving into Harry K. Thaw, multi-millionaire a house in white residential area. At the same time, he declared that Germany must remain under occupation for 10 to 15 years to insure world security. McNarney said the action regarding Prussia would confirm in law what already had taken place in fact through the breaking up of Prussia into Russian and British zones of occupation. Once a German kingdom, Prussia later became the largest, most populous and most important state in the German Reich. By the efforts of Otto von Bismarck it became the cornerstone of a unified Germany in about 1870 and remained so until it was split off from the remainder of Germany by the Polish corridor after World War I. Later it was an integral part of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich.

McNarney said the control council's coordinating committee was instructed to outline the Prussian law yesterday after Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky announced that Russia agreed with American and British suggestions made in connection with the drafting of the council's report on Germany for the foreign ministers' meeting at Moscow next month.

In connection with that report. Mc-Narney said "significant progress has been made the last few days and many agreements reached." He added the council would meet again Feb. 25, "when we hope to be able to consider and approve the remainder of the report." Nevertheless, he declared Apparently not minding in the least, three-week-old Sharron Lee Engels, of Los Angeles, looks calmly at dentist E. E. Torsch as he extracts the two teeth with which she was born. X-rays showed that her "baby" teeth were developing normally under the pre-mature ones and extractions were made to prevent deformities of the lower jaw. Local anesthetic was administered with hypodermic needle. Pictured, left to right, are: Dr. Torsch, Mrs. Evelyn Engels, the baby's mother; Sharron; and nurse Esther Englund.

Next: A World Trade Policy

The development of a bipartisan foreign policy is rtainly one of America's major postwar achievements. Tested under fire, it has withstood some sharp attacks and emerged strong and with a promise of enduring. Yet its scope is more limited than the name suggests

Our unanimity is confined to the political side of foreign relations. In the field of international trade and finance there are still some sharp divisions. They are not so much between Democrats and Republicans as between groups within each party. And so long as they exist it cannot truly be said that we have bipartisan agreement on foreign policy.

The question behind these differences is: Can the United States combine political internationalism with economic isolationism? That question has been sharpened by the election of a Republican majority in Congress, even though the answers are not divided on a strictly party basis. And the Republicans, realizing this, are facing the issue.

Discussion of tariffs and reciprocal trade agreements is starting up among Republican congressmen. A lot of debate, much of it hot, is inevitable before they reach an agreement. Some senators would like to go back to the Smoot-Hawley days of high tariff right away. Some want to give the trade-agreement job back to Congress. Others want to avoid this step with its "inevitable logrolling." Still others would ban tariff reductions for a matter of years.

Harold E. Stassen, who never fears to stick his neck out, had some interesting things to say on the subject in his Lincoln Day speech.

He supported his argument for "worldwide economic participation" by calling attention to these factors: American productivity is increasing tremendously; we have become the great creditor nation of the world; we are dependent on the rest of the world for much of our raw material; world peace is impossible without a steady improvement in the living standards of other peoples everywhere.

Our choice, Mr. Stassen says, "is either to go forward now with the reciprocal trade agreements, or to slide backward in economic isolation." Obviously, he would like to see his party take the forward step. Yet he counsels gradual adjustments and improved methods of negotiating agreements, with due care for American industry and agriculture, and safeguards against dumping of goods, exceeding quota limitations, and so on.

Whether or not one agrees with Mr. Stassen, there are certain facts of our modern economic life that are clear. Many countries have borrowed money from this government. They need American products. America needs to keep production high permanently. When the current unnatural demand at home has abated, our industry will need to sell to other countries. Our people would like to see the government's loans repaid

But to buy goods and pay debts these other coun tries need to sell. If they cannot sell here they will sell somewhere else. Their raw materials that we need will go where these countries receive the best treatment. It is to our national self-interest to sell goods and to get back goods and dollars. How and by how much trade barriers must be broken down to achieve this is the problem before the Republican Congress. It's not an easy one, and there will be some rough going before it is

Good Feeling Or Fear?

Some top men in government, business and labor unions are expressing what the diplomats call "cautious optimism" these days. They feel that an era of good feeling in industrial relations may be coming on, although e feeling is almost too good to be true. And there are reasons at the moment to make that feeling more than wishful thinking.

There aren't any nationally important strikes. A twoyear task of job-classification in the steel industry has been finished to everyone's satisfaction. Several important contracts have been extended during negotiations, when there might have been strikes at the deadline. Phil Murray and Ben Fairless seem to be on speaking

But is it good feeling or a healthy fear? The unions may be afraid of slap-down legislation if they don't proteed carefully. Industry may be worrying about possible strikes and portal-to-portal judgments. Congress may be thinking, now that things are relatively quiet, that maybe some proposed labor legislation is a little rough for a lot

Yet, if the atmosphere is a little tense, it's also peaceful. Maybe somebody will lead with a left and spoil it all. But right now collective bargaining seems to be working, and all's approximately right with the world.

Henry McLemore

I have every reason in the world to hold a grudge against the British people. A Redcoat put a slug in an antecedent of mine at Bunker Hill.

I have had to sit through a cricket game.

I have had to drink British coffee, eat British jellied eels, and cross the British Channel on a rough day. What more, I have been given the old school tie brush-off by Britons, have had to endure one of their radio programs, and, what is even worse, have had to sit through lecture by that modest, shrinking violet of the tight little isle, Randolph Churchill.

But I can't hold a grudge against the British. I try to, but I can't. Every time I get myself worked up against the British, I remember what they have been through since 1939 and what they are going through now. I don't mean the lords and the ladies and the dukes and the duchesses and the peers and the Pierce Arrows, and all the others who have extensive lawns and credit to match. No, I know from first-hand experience that they didn't take too much of a licking during the time that the swastika spread its shadow. They knew where the black markets were, and had the cash and influence to work them. They knew where the chops could be had, the sweaters bought, the eggs purchased, and the gaso-Ine obtained.

But the little Briton-what a beating he has taken Not for one year, not for two, but for eight years, and the end of the misery isn't in sight yet. He has had so little that it is a wonder he has survived.

He has had so little food, so little clothing, so little heat, so little happiness and so little hope. I was last in England in early 1943, and the worst of the blitz was over, but the Britons still were having to hang by their ingertips. An English sparrow pie was a luxury. Eggs were handled as if they were diamonds. To drop a scrap of paper or a bit of string on the street was to draw a reprimand for waste. It didn't seem so touch then, because there was the mad exhiliration of war, and the

Jimmie Fidler

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21.-I'm both impressed and amused by the reported change in Maria Montez. For the past several years, insiders at Universal have agreed in classing her as the most temperamental, hard-to-getalong-with star in town; now, from unbiased workers at United Artists, where she is starring in "Atlantis," I hear that she has suddenly become the very epitome of sweetness and light. Instead of fighting tooth and nail for the greater glorification of Maria Montez, at the expense of the rest of the cast if necessary, she now is willing to do anything that seems likely to benefit the picture as a whole.

I was puzzled by this overnight metamorphosis until learned that Miss Montez, who hitherto has worked for salary alone, now is working for salary plus a ten per cent interest in the profits of "Atlantis." I'm puzzled no longer, for I've observed the same remarkable change in other temperamental stars when they become copartners in their films.

When the producers first started giving stars percentage deals, a couple of years ago, I questioned their wisdom. Let me be the first to admit that I was wrong. It's becoming quite apparent that the resultant saving in production costs more than off-set the stars' royalty checks. The studio czars might well be compared to parents who, having failed to spank their unruly kids when spankings were needed, must eventually pass out candy in order to buy the good behavior of their spring-

Marlene Dietrich: "Did you ever hear of an 'Oscar' being given to a good actress in a bad role?" No-but I've heard of an Oscar being given to a bad actress in a good role.

Adolphe Menjou broke into print the other day with an interview about "what-the-well-dressed-man" will wear in 1947. Said he: "A well-dressed man would never think of wearing slacks other than gray flannel. He wouldn't tolerate sports jackets that are half leather, half woolen. He'd never wear a striped shirt with a striped suit. He wouldn't appear in public without a hat. He'd always wear knickers while playing golfeven though young folks on the course might kid him The impeccable Mr. Menjou reminds me of a certain private in the First World War-the one who contended that everyone else in the regiment was out

In the Hal Wallis "colossal," "I Walk Alone," there's a scene in which gangsters force Wendell Corey to walk several hundred feet down a dark alley before mowing him down with a burst of gunfire. Watching the filming of that dramatic episode the other day, I picked up an unexpected chuckle. The director, Byron Haskins, had Corey rehearse his death march through the alley again and again, and each time found some minute fault with the action. After the umpteenth rehearsal, Corey, a stage star still new to the ways of Hollywood, offered a mild protest. "Look here," he said. "Let me have it straight. Am I to be shot-or just walked to death?'

After completing a few more scenes in a downtown Los Angeles cathedral, R. K. O.'s "Tycoon" company will move to the High Sierra, where temperatures, at this time of the year, often fall near zero. Facing that chill prospect, John Wayne, Laraine Day, Judith Anderson, Anthony Quinn and Sir Cedric Hardwicke took time out the other noon and went on a group shopping spree in a dingy little war surplus store in the wholesale district. Having been told about the bargains they found in outing duds, I went down there the next day and found in the shop window the amusing sign: "Patronized By Hollywood's Most Famous Stars." Any merchant who sells a single article to a celebrity, in this part of the world, loses no time in boasting of it.

20th Century-Fox publicity advises me that Gene Tierney requires four hours every morning to make up as a grandmother for her role in "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir." I'm wondering if it wouldn't have been simpler a cast one of our superannuated glamour girls in that part-and have her remove her make-up, instead of

ASSOCIATION

We all learn, we all remember what we learn, through association. We associate ideas with people and things. If we have a happy hour, an enjoyable experience with somebody, what we did and said, what we gave and received at that time, is forever fied in memory to that person and place. For this reason, we should be watchful to make as many pleasant associations in our relations with a child as we can muster,

When a teacher is about to introduce a new subject to a class, to present a new problem or a new method, it is well to build up a background of expectation, to make the room bright and attractive by some little change in decoration or arrangement, to make himself look attractive, interesting and pleasant to the sight and feeling of the children. We always knew when Miss Jannet was going to teach us something new. There would be a red rose on the desk and she would be wearing a bright ribbon, or a new dress or a bow on her apron, and she would be smiling in a mysterious way By the time she got ready to tell us the news, we were on the edges of our seats waiting for it. I remember just how the room looked and how the red rose smelled the morning she taught us about Like Signs and Unlike Signs in algebra class.

Any experience at home or abroad leaves its mark for good or ill on a child, and it is our duty to see that as many happy ones as possible are sent their way. It is not necessary to insist that a child visit the person he lears or dislikes because he is a member of the family. If he wants a child's affection, let him earn it or go without. Nor is it necessary to shout and scold and scream at a child who has made a mistake. That mistake is going to be registered in his mnid along with whatever else happened at the time, so be careful to act in a way that will blot out the error and accent the right way. Otherwise, the mistake will have evil consequences.

When a child fails in a certain seat in class, change his seat and let him start again, with cheers. When he tights his meals try serving them in another room, in another way, in another form, in dishes he has not used before. This is what people mean when they get up, change their seats and say they are changing their luck. They are changing their thinking, getting out of a rut by changing their associations.

All day long this law of association is working, and mothers and teachers have the privilege of using its power in their services with children.

lift that comes with fighting for existence, but that is all

But still the British have nothing. Everything they make is sent abroad. The Empire's export business must still carry on. There is no coal, and the towns are blacked out just as they were during the war. All about them, the British see the other countries enjoying some fruits of peace and victory. Even the vanquished are better off than they. Tourists are travelling for pleasure. The "Queen Elizabeth" makes her run from Southampton loaded with wines and foods, and there are deck games in the sun for the merry.

But the little Briton is just where he was eight years ago. His house is cold. His children are hungry. He lives amidst shabbiness.

Who is to blame? I don't know. But this I do know. One can't get too mad at the British people. For every Briton who reaped glory, honors, and world acclaim during World War II there are hundreds of thousands of Britons who gained only misery and suffering and who, today, still can see no sun in the sky.

PLAN LIBRARY DEMONSTRATION

Citizens' Meeting Is Held To This End In St. Joseph

FERRIDAY, La., Feb. 21.—(Special)
—At a citizens' meeting held in St.
Joseph Tuesday night in the Community House, a St. Joseph library committee composed of Castor Causey,
O. N. Wilds and Dr. Joseph Whitaker, was appointed to work with similar committees in Newellton and Waterproof to investigate the matter of securing a library demonstration for Tensas parish.

Miss Sallie Farrell, field worker for the Louisiana state library, who was invited by the Tensas Garden Club to attend the meeting, explained to the group of interested citizens what a library demonstration is.

"A library demonstration," Miss Farrell said, "is an actual demonstration of how a parish library is set up and works, in bringing books to every person in the parish. The Louisiana state library bears the greater part of the demonstration costs, for it sends into the parish thousands of new books, a staff of trained librarians, and a bookmobile. The parish police jury furnishes sufficient funds for certain operating expenses of the demonstration such as the cost of housing, shelving, furniture and utilities."

She explained that the books and bookmobile remain in the parish on indefinite loan if at the end of the year's demonstration period, the police jury makes an appropriation for continuing the library or submits the proposition of its maintenance to the favorable action of the voters.

"Twenty-four parishes now have parish-wide library service," concluded Miss Farrell, "including the neighboring parishes of Madison and Concordia, which are parish-supported and three in the demonstration stage. There are nine parishes in which the police juries have passed ordinances of library establishment and are waiting on demonstrations. If Tensas parish passes an ordinance it will be the tenth on the list and will be in line for a demonstration."

Dov Bela Gruner, alleged Palestine terrorist condemned to be hanged, has refused to appeal his sentence to the Privy Council in London. His conviction and sentence precipitated current crisis in the Holy Land.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(P)—In the past few days you've heard a lot of oratory from Congress on the budget. You'll hear more.

Here's an explanation for anyone confused by what's been happening. Last month President Truman asked Congress to vote $37,500,000,000 to run the government for another year. (That's the fiscal year starting next July 1 and ending June 30, 1948. So Congress has until June 30 to finish voting the money.)

In this budget Mr. Truman explained in great detail how much money was needed for each department of government:

So much for the army, the navy, the agriculture and commerce departments, international affairs, and so on.
Last year Congress reorganized itself. In doing so, it decided this:

When the president sent his message in January, Congress would look at it.
Then it would try to decide very quickly whether it thought the estimate was all right or should be cut.
For the past week the House has been arguing about this and yesterday decided it could be cut $6,000,000,000—from $37.500.000.000 to $31.500.000.000.

The Senate, still arguing, will vote pretty soon on how much it thinks the cut should be. It may decide on a cut of $4,500,000,000.

Then House and Senate will get together, through a committee, and try to agree on a cut of—say—$5,000,-000.000.

000,000.

Will that be law then? No. Won't that be the actual cut in the budget?

No. That's just an estimated cut.

Neither House nor Senate yet has investigated to see how much it can

Senate are just guessing now.
Is this just oratory now? Pretty much. Except for this; By voting on an estimated cut now Congress is setting up a target to shoot at.

each department. House and

And for this reason:
House and Senate committees, as they've always done in the past, will go on and hold long hearings.
They'll call a parade of government

They'll call a parade of government officials and department heads to explain why their departments need as much money as the president's budget said they do.

Through these hearings, or investigations, the committees will decide how much it's safe to cut each department.

Then the committees will recommend to the full House and Senate how much it thinks each department really needs.

really needs.

The full Congress will then vote, one by one, on money for each department

It won't know, until it's voted the last bit of money, maybe sometime next June, how much money it's voted altogether to run the government.

Isn't it possible then that Congress will wind up finding it hasn't cut government expenses very much below Mr. Truman's estimate?

Possible, but not likely. This is why:

Possible, but not likely. This is why: By agreeing at this time on an estimate of how much they think the cut should be, the full House and Senate are putting an obligation on all the committees to trim government, expenses severely.

That's the target the full Congress is setting up for itself by voting on an estimate now, long before the committees finish their work,

Congress is taking a chance of putting itself on the spot by all this:

If it agrees now on a huge cut but, in the end, winds up cutting only a little, the voters may feel Congress talked one thing but did another.

So, as some congressmen explain it, the estimated cuts agreed upon now are putting a moral obligation on Congress to make those estimates real.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Taxes Versus Sudden Death!

Our town may not be the wealthiest in the country... but we're mighty proud of how we've spent taxpayers' money on improvements—like the railroad overpass out on the highway.

I remember during Prohibition when hip-flask drinking caused a lot of nasty accidents at that railroad crossing. Folks agitated for an overpass—but the very law that made that crossing dangerous deprived us of the funds to correct it. (Beer alone, pays as over two millions dollars a lay in taxes.)

That went on all over the ountry . . . atill is, in local Prohibition areas. Prohibition takes millions away in taxes, adds millions more to the cost of law enforcement.

But from where I sit, even that staggering burden is a drop in the bucket compared with the costs that can be measured. The breakdown of law and order, gangsterism, juvenile delinquency, and all the other evils that accompany a law like Prohibition!

The gay and colorful carnival spirit was rampant in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gunby when they entertained with a dinner party complimentary to Miss Satchie Naiden and her fiance, Mr. Charles Finlayson, of Tyler, Texas.

The carnival colors, purple, red and yellow, radiated from every section of gifts, silver pins for ladies and silver the reception suite and library with purple tulips overflowing from yellow urns, predominating. Red and vellow ranunculus were also placed advantageously. #### TECH ALUMNI WILL MEET ON MONDAY

Ouachita Parish Tech Alumni will meet for a second time in Hotel Frances Monday at 7 p. m., states Fort Zackary, '38, president of the parish group here.

He states that the first meeting was off to a flying start. Reference to files of Tech have shown that there are 200 Ouachita parish today who are either graduates or who have attended Tech, for it is not necessary to have graduated there to be a member.

President Zackary states that there is no intention to compete with such institutions as Louisiana State University or Northeast Junior College, but it is the purpose to aid Tech and to continue loyalty of its former students toward their Alma Mater.

Meetings will be held at least four times a year, perhaps oftener, and it is desired to have all former Tech stulents present and enrolled as alumni nembers.

The meeting Monday night starts at p. m. and will be over by 8 p. m. so as not to conflict with other appointments. It is urged that there be a record-sized attendance at this important meeting.

DEFINITION OF COURAGE GIVEN

Chaplain Calls It Overcoming Of Natural Fear Because Of Good

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 21.-(AP)-Courage, by definition of the Rev. Joseph T. O'Callahan, former navy chaplain, "is the voluntary willingness by which we overcome natural, normal fear because of a greater good."

Father O'Callahan has had an opportunity to know something of courage because, as ship's chaplain, he sur-vived the holocaust which swept the U. S. carrier Franklin on March 19, 1945, after it had been bombed by Japanese planes.

The Worcester, Mass., priest, only chaplain to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor, spoke here last night while on a tour of the nation. He speaks next in New Orleans.

The explosions aboard the Franklin, Father O'Callahan said, were more last few years with the government before his retirement in 1931. He was sel was carrying a new type of aerial rocket, designated the "Tiny Tim," which was to be used by the Frank lin's planes against the Japanese for the first time.

Describing the rockets as 20 feet long and a foot in diameter, the priest said: "One was supposed to blow up a battleship. But they blew up on us."

Declaring that courage is not ignorance. Father O'Callahan asserted that "it is easier to see what courage s not than what it is. It is not recklessness. It is disregard for life. Unless human life is important, then the word courage has no meaning. Courage presupposes that human life is important."

He spoke here in the Holy Name Forum series. With him on the plat-form were four Baton Rouge men who erved aboard the Franklin.

Father O'Callahan, who said he would rather be back at Worcester eaching mathematics at Holy Cross College, will deliver an address in the municipal auditorium in New Orleans Caturday night. His tour will continue until September.

"To the rest of the world it will be a final proof of the fact that the British government is sincere in its desire to see India ruled by Indians and does not, as is sometimes suggested, derive secret satisfaction from the communal quarrels which are delaying the transfer."

The main house of commons discussion, however, is expected to be concentrated on the government's abrupt replacement of Viceroy Lord Wavell Mountbatten-an action prought angry protests from Winston Churchill yesterday and from some British newspapers today.

The prime minister's office announced that Viscount Wavell was to e awarded an earldom and that Mountbatter, would be appointed to the privy council.

The Hindus maintain that the continued presence of Moslems in the government is incompatible with their continuing boycott of the constitution drafting constituent assembly, now in recess until April.

The first reaction in India, New Delhi dispatches said, was that British ection had pushed the vast nation and its 400 000 000 residents to the brink of decision--civil war or amicable settle-

Congress leaders felt British withdrawal meant a viceroy for the priniples of the Congress party and some egarded Wavell's replacement as a step to placate Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, leading minister of the interim government and chief strategist of the ongress party.

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, said he wanted to study the British statement before commenting, but other Moslem leaders dourly predicted that civil war would erupt as soon as the British perhaps before. Jinnah earlier had said that for the British to leave without providing safeguards for minorities (the 90,000,000 Moslems in India comprise the largest minorolemn promises.

One informed source in London said he whole purpose of the new British step was to "produce agreement" between Moslems and Hindus, who have refused to cooperate in drafting the ramework of an independent India and who have engaged in bloody communal rioting fatal to thousands.

Having said this one hastens to note that the transaction hasn't yet been completed. It remains for the warring Hindus and Moslems of British India to bury the hatchet and establish that responsible" government. It also remains for the some 600 reigning princes and lesser potentates to con-clude agreements to facilitate England's withdrawal.

From the standpoint of Indian opportunity the set-up would seem to be is nearly perfect as things come in this life. However, as Prime Minister Attlee pointed out yesterday in the of commons, the situation is "fraught with danger" because of the uncertainty between the All-India Congress party—which is mainly Hindu—and the Moslem League. Thus far they have been unable to submerge their quarrel sufficiently to cooperate in the provisional government which the viceroy, Field Marshal Lord Wavell, has for months been trying to get into action.

Not only that, but the politicoreligious differences have become so oitter that there has been widespread bloodshed, costing thousands of lives and great property damage. We shouldn't overlook the possibility that India hasn't yet seen the end of this

Janiro-Jack Battle On KMLB Tonight

Beau Jack, Georgia's ball of fire, who twice held the world lightweight title. returns to Madison Square Garden tonight to prove his merit as a leading contender for welter honors. He tackles Tony Janiro (above), the fistic wonder boy from Youngstown, in the ten-round feature event.

The Beau's idea of fightin' is to fight. He takes a headlong bead on the guy in the other corner and away he goes-right into high. He's a swingfrom-the-floor slasher, a sharp-shoot ing left being his soundest weapon. Janiro, however, is no powder puff. His record embraces 57 wins in 60 contests. Tony is brilliant, works in a businesslike manner and is never flustered. His left hook is a study of precision and he striker his foe with the impact of a piston.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-(AP)-A large question mark climbs into Madisor Square Garden's ring Friday hight to throw some punches, and by the time the shooting stops the folks will have an answer to the query.

The question mark, in this case, is
Beau (The Jumping) Jack, one-time Georgia shoe-shine boy and, at 26, twice former holder of the world lightweight championship. He tangles in a ten-rounder with Tony Janeiro ster out of Youngstown, Ohio.

The question is just how much broken knee will have affected the bouncing Beau, a windmill kind of clouter who came out of the army a year and a half ago to find he was no longer a lightweight. After chalk ing up a couple of impressive wins over Johnny Greco and Sammy Ang it, he broke his knee while training for a Chicago bout with Willie Joyce and has been on the shelf ever

The rapid little Negro will not only be giving the injured knee a full workout this time, but will also be proving just how far along he might get among the welters-and whether he can aim for a shot at Champior Ray Robinson, as he hopes. For, in Janiro he takes on a tough, classyboxing youngster who has won 57 of 60 starts. In his last local party, Tony galloped home with a decision over Tony Pellone, who since has whipped Lightweight Champ Bob Montgom-

MOBLEY STOPS CANNY'S BID

Chair-Swinging Finish Tops Otherwise Uneventful State Crown Bout

Rex Mobley, Texas City, Tex., was still Louisiana state light-heavyweight champion today following his straightfalls victory over "Wild Bill" Canny, Independence Kans., in a rather tame main event scramble at Kallio's Arena Gil Dodds. last night.

The match, in which Canny and Mobley were slow in opening up with their usual brutality, didn't really get hot until the last few seconds of the second fall, but the wrestlers came through with a whirlwind finish and chair-swinging melee to save the scrap from being a completely tame affair.

The real excitement started when Canny knocked Mobley out of the ring into the laps of the ringside customers. As Mobley started back into the ring, Canny shoved Referee Bill Barney aside and sent Mobley sprawling among the fans once more. The referee didn't like the way Canny shoved him around, and landed a naymaker on Canny's neck just as Mobley came bouncing back with a chair in his hands. Barney wrest the chair away and handed it out to a customer, but Mobley and Canny both reached for the weapon and succeeded in getting it back in the ring.

Then Canny, Mobley, and the referce battled for possession of the chair which Canny got-across the top of his head-in the mixup. Canny fell to the mat, and Mobley grabbed the opportunity to cover him to win the fall in thirteen minutes. Mobley had won the slow first fall in ten minutes with a rolling leg split. Walter Stratton, the laughing boy from Chicago, had to come from behind to beat "Sailor" Watkins, Birmingham policeman, in the semi-final attraction.

Watkins, who carried on verbal warfare with the fans all the way, won the first heat in ten minutes. Stratton came back, however, to win the second with a rocking chair in ten minutes, and the Chicago weight lifter tapered off by taking the third and variation of the surfboard.

Supt. Welch advised the board that the survey of the Ouachita Parish School System by the State Department of Education would begin on March 3, 1947, and would be completed at the earliest possible time.

Supt. Welch advised the board that the Negroes in the New St. John Community bed petitioned the board that the Negroes in the New St. John Community bed petitioned the board that since

Negroes in the New St. John Community had pelitioned the board stating that since the loss of their building by fire, their children have been taught in a church which is poorly suited to their needs, and which is poorly stitled to their needs, and asked the consideration of the board in improving conditions as early as possible. The board discussed this question and stated that the survey which is to begin on March 3, should show whether it is advisable to rebuild their building, or consolidate this school with Mineral Springs solidate this school with Mineral Springs High School.

Mr. Joe Ford was present and advised the Board that a minimum of 16,000 to 18,000 to 18,00 pired and that it will be necessary to revole this tax before the next tax roll is filed. He stated that he would like to be able to pay the teachers more salary for next session and asked the board to consider the advisability of increasing our local miliage in order to do so.

On motion of D. Frank Smith, seconded by M. D. Swayze, the Board authorized President Inabnet to appoint a committee of three members of the board to study the written request filed with this Board for adoption of a single salary schedule for white and Negro teachers of Ouachita Parish. The President appointed on this committee Messrs. C. G. Wall, Jr., W. E. Palmer and C. B. Griggs.
On motion of C. B. Griggs, seconded by A. B. Guthrle, the chairman was authorized to appoint two members on the committee concerning the Jonesboro Highway to replace Mr. G. F. Owens, and Mr. R. R. 17-Year-Old Boy Arrested After Attempting Another On Seventh St.

Monroe's recent wave of house burglaries was halted Thursday afternoon when police arrested O. C. Fletcher, 17 year old Negro boy, who lives in the Booker T. Washington addition. Police said that Fletcher admitted breaking into at least 10 houses since Oct. 12, four of them the ones around Erwin Ave., which were entered last Monday and from which over $700 in a load of yard dirt, and when I started asking him questions he ran from the

He was ar rested by Officers Ray Steele, W. C. Oglesbee, Russell Jurdon, and H. R. Wall, and brought to the police station where he was booked on charges of burglary. He was later transferred to the parish jail where he will remain until he is tried by the district

Fletcher's identity had been known for the past few days. Police had finger prints of him on file, and they matched with ones made at several of the homes broken into.

CHURCH ENVOYS END CONFERENCE

Program Called Important Step Toward 'More Christian Society'

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.-(AP)-Delegates to an experimental Protestant conference on economic problems today carried back to home churches a proposed nation-wide program which one leader called an important step toward "a more Christian society."

About 350 weary laymen and clergymen at the national conference on the church and economic life, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, wound up three days of warm discussion last night would account for $12,500,000 of the with a stand they hoped their churches would accept.

Chairman Charles P. Tait, of Cincinnati, declared the conference exceeded his hopes and added:

"We have set in motion a process within the Protestant churches which should in time lead to widespread study and discussion by Christian laymen of the application of their religious faith to the problems they face n every day living."

Taft, who also is president of the feceral council, said the next step "bring reconciliation to the fields of conflict and progress toward n more Christian society.

The adopted program adanced these highlights:

1. A declaration that society "cannot tolerate" monopolies in business or

2. The statement that while profits are defensible, Christians should subordinate profits to service. 3. The stand that Christianity belongs to no particular economic system but that its principles apply to "the organization of society" as well as personal relationships.

4. An assertion that property is held "trusteeship under God" and that further experiments should be made, where public regulation is difficult, to "forms of private, cooperative and public ownership."

The delegates, two-thirds of whom were laymen, declared society as a whole has the responsibility of providing "the opportunity to work," suggested theology students be given training in economics, and urged the church to sharpen its knowledge of industrial relations.

Lack of complete agreement common. Economists, lawyers and businessmen generally objected to the tone of many proffered resolutions while union leaders were impatient with unsuccessful efforts made to put the conference on record against the

'BROTHERHOOD THEME OF MEET

Men Of Different Faiths Speakers Before Exchange Club

National Brotherhood week was observed at the Thursday noon meeting of the Exchange Club. Tom Firnberg, program chairman, introduced Father Marsh, who in turn introduced the speakers, Everett Burgoyne, Sackman Marks, and former Congressman C E. McKenzie. The first speaker, Mr. Burgoyne, representing the Catholic faith, said in part, "The dictionary defines 'brotherhood' as a group of men having the same aims and ideals, the state of being brothers. We are showing that by our appearance together and our

"My appearance here together with men of Jewish and Protestant faiths does not mean that I have changed my religious convictions in any way We are trying to foster the suppres sion of bigotry and oppression in the vorld today," Mr. Burgoyne said.

Father Marsh introduced as the next speaker, Sackman Marks, representing the Jewish faith. Mr. Marks told of the true spirit of "brotherhood" exnibited among the people he met while interned in a German prison camp. He stated, "The Germans have ong had instilled in them the Nazi deals, and the Japanese the same with their old imperial government. We must have the true spirit of brotherhood in America before we can have peace in the world. We will have to show the Japanese and the Germans what we mean by 'brotherhood' before they will change."
Mr. McKenzie, representing the Protestant faith, stated, "This nation of ours was founded on the principle that we should have the right to worfor a lively fight which ended with ship God in the way we saw fit.
